

Susan Carey is the County Councillor for Elham Valley where she was first elected in 2005.

Susan's career was in international rail and she came to Kent whilst working for Eurotunnel. She's a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Logistics and Transport and has an MBA with distinction from Ashridge Management College. She also has a Postgraduate Certificate in Local Government with distinction from London Southbank University.

Susan is a trustee of two local charities; the Sir John Williams charity which supports education in the Elham Parish and the Robert Thompson Charities which cares for the almshouses and village hall in Saltwood. Susan is also the honorary president of the National Coastwatch Institute in Folkestone, a friend of the Folkestone Choral Society and a friend of St Nicholas Church in Newington.

Susan is also a District Councillor at Folkestone & Hythe representing North Downs West together with Cllr Jenny Hollingsbee.